

HEARTS

This is romance at its best, said Amanda Quick of Honey, the third book in Stef Ann Holm's Brides for All Seasons series. And readers who enjoy their historical romance liberally spiced with passion and laughter are in for another unforgettable treat. HEARTS Suspended for teaching human sexuality to her students, Truvy Valentine has come to Harmony, Montana, to visit her dear friend, Edwina, and try to forget that she will most likely die a tall, athletic old maid. Although she has diligently...

Reader's Opinions

2 stars. Its not that I wanted it to be over, its more like I was waiting for it to get good.Hard to stay interested. Unusual things happened, but it wasnt a good story. And I did not like the conflicts...

I really liked this story set about 1900. It had a strong female lead in Edwina, a "spinster" at 24. The story had Edwina living in her hometown after attending college in Chicago and...
