

THE COLLAPSING EMPIRE

The first novel of a new space-opera sequence set in an all-new universe. Our universe is ruled by physics and faster than light travel is not possible -- until the discovery of The Flow, an extra-dimensional field we can access at certain points in space-time that transport us to other worlds, around other stars. Humanity flows away from Earth, into space, and in time forgets our home world and creates a new empire, the Interdependency, whose ethos requires that no one human outpost can survive without the others. It's a...

Peek Inside the Book

something funny, Lord Marce? asked a young woman, standing in front of a desk. She was wearing imperial green. This was clearly the emperor, and equally clearly he'd just blown his entrance. He bowed. I'm sorry, Your Majesty, he said. I was surprised by your office. How so? I well. Ma'am. It looks like a museum exploded inside of it. Obeles Atek sucked in her breath and apparently was...

Reader's Opinions

I tried repeatedly to read and finish this book, but finally gave up at 25 percent (DNF). Look I like John Scalzi a lot. I loved "Redshirts" and "Lock In", but this book right here is all the worst bits of "The Android's Dream" and I refuse to read that book ever again. I think the biggest issue of why I couldn't get into this book is...
